

5th September

Our trip started on 4th September at 10 pm with a 10 hours bus ride to Calais in France. The ride started well with the first person throwing up. During the night Gustaf was very talkative, which wasn't a joy for Charlotte. Later everyone was sleeping (except Jolanda) in the bus, even though it was quite uncomfortable in the seats.

As we arrived in Calais we listened to the first presentations about the English Channel and at 9:30 am the bus drove on the ferry. At the ferry we made ourselves comfortable on deck, played cards, talked or ate something. After a short time we were able to see the White Cliffs of Dover and felt excited. We arrived at the other side of the channel 90 minutes later and the bus ride went on.

After another 2 hours and some naps we arrived at Stonehenge and visited this mysterious stone complex and took pictures from all perspectives. At 4 pm we hopped on the bus and 2 hours later we arrived in Torquay where we waited for our host families to pick us up....
