

DAY 1

The bus journey, the ferry and Stonhenge

Our journey to England began on the 30th April at about 10 o'clock. At 9:30 the next morning, we reached Calais, after we had crossed Belgium and France, where our ferry started. After we had gone through the customs control, we had an hour of waiting time and most of us went into a tall building right next to the docks, where we all just sat down and waited. The ferry crossing took 75 minutes and the ferry was very big. Many people of our class didn't think, it would be that big. On the ferry, there was a Starbucks café, a bakery, duty free shops and many more. We then reached the coast of Dover. The white cliffs were very magnificent because you could already see them from a far distance. After a three-hour drive, we arrived at a service station with a variety of shops and stayed there for lunch. There were, for example, a Starbucks, a KFC, a Burger King and a Subway. We then, after a thirty minutes break, started to drive to Stonhenge. Mister Adam told us something about the history of Stonehenge, and that we can't visit it today because of the bank holiday on the 1st May. If today had not been a bank holiday, we would have had a guided tour. So we weren't able to get some close up videos and pictures, but it was impressive. And, we would have visited Salisbury if we had taken our ferry at 9.50 and not the ferry one hour later. Finally, we all safely arrived at the coach station and our host families came to pick us up.
