Today was our 4th day at school. Our teacher Annabelle and also some students were really concerned about the date, because - of course - Friday the 13th. Annabelle also told us about some bad things that happened to her and it was only 8:45 in the morning!

In today's lesson we talked about food and everyone was complaining, because no one likes the sandwiches they give us here and all the pictures in class looked so delicious, but eventually we made it through those long three hours 😊.

We sadly cancelled our plans to go to Plymouth today, because we were all really exhausted from our day yesterday, so we went to Torquay again and there our teachers had a surprise for us. WE WENT INTO AN ESCAPE ROOM!! All of us were really excited and we also escaped in time which I think we are a little bit proud of. It was very interesting solving those riddles. One room was a breakout of Dartmoor prison and the other room was to solve a Riviera mystery loosely based on the novels by Agatha Christie who was born in Torquay and lived here as a child.

After this we had time to go around Torquay until we would meet at the bus stop. We spread around the town, some of us went to McDonalds - you can never get tired of it 😊 - and we landed in the book shop - again (this is our 3rd day in a row 😊). For our travel portfolio we also had a task to find out the prices of some products so we just strolled around the supermarket a little bit. I was quite fun walking around Torquay and exploring the shops, especially when you have great people with you.

This was already the end of the day and around half past five we started dropping off everyone at their bus stations to get home.

I think we will all sleep tight tonight, because we walk pretty much every day.
